Friends of the Chatsworth Library

Join us at our Giant Book Sale Saturday, April 16th 10:00 am – 2:00 pm

Plenty of New-Used books to read!

Our quarterly Giant Book sale is almost here. It's time to get some like-new books at special prices. We once again have thousands of books we have been collecting to make available to the public and our members.

As usual we have almost new hard-bound books and a huge selection of paperbacks to stock up on for your reading pleasure, at a fraction of the cost of new books. Hardbound books are $1.00 and paperbacks and videos are only 50 cents each.

MEMBERS ONLY: Drop by Friday, April 15th from 2:00 to 4:00 pm as we set up for the Saturday book sale. We will sell books Friday afternoon to members only, so drop by to help us set out the books and see what we have to offer at this special preview sale.

If you miss this one, our next book sale will be July 16, 2016.

President's Report

President - Ann Vincent

If you haven't taken the time...stop and browse the art work and displays at the library. Our stained glass window, the stacked book art sculptures, our soft stuffed toys that change clothes from season to season. And when you get a chance, step into our Friends Book Room, purchase a book for $1 and see how much fun our volunteers have decorating for each season.

The Summer Reading Program is just around the corner and something new has been added. During the same time that the Childrens and Teen programs are held, an Adult program will be included. The theme is READ for the Win...and will feature Olympic sports, competition etc, with prizes and fun for all.

JUDGING A BOOK BY IT'S COVER - Aka (50 cents well spent)

I admit it; I judged a book by its cover. I was at the Chatsworth Friends quarterly book sale and picked up "Stolen Away" by Max Allan Collins (1991) purely on the fact that Clive Cussler endorsed it as an interesting alternate time line read. Hmm, well I thought, I have enjoyed Clive Cussler books in the past and its style and depth of his storylines, so I paid the 50 cents to take the paperback home. The book was about the Lindbergh baby kidnapping from the perspective of a fictional Chicago police detective. I enjoyed the book thoroughly, but paused after reading the first few chapters, to brush up on the real events of the kidnapping and the people involved. When I resumed reading the book, I noticed that Collins had done his research as well, and used every single person involved with the case as part of his storyline, and how his fictional police detective interacted with said individuals throughout the case, and provided insight and perspective from his point of view, and a proposed ending that was different than the historical outcome. I felt the book was about 50 pages too long for me in the middle, but the latter part of the book really picked up and I liked the "alternative" ending to the case. I also learned something as well. Kidnapping became a federal offense as a result of the true case of the Lindbergh kidnapping. I did not know that, but found it through my additional readings on the subject.

I enjoyed the book enough to look into Max Allan Collins' other books and discovered that his fictional police detective Nathan Heller has also appeared in more than 20 other books. I believe I will look for "Flying Blind" at the library next, as that is about Amelia Earhart and her disappearance. After looking up the writer, he has written other storylines as follows (obtained from Wikipedia). Quarry series (US Marine sniper turned professional assassin), Nolan series (professional thief), Eliot Ness series, books featuring historical disasters, and many others as well as writing the Road to Perdition graphic novels, which was later made into a movie featuring Tom Hanks. All in all, a great paperback found at the Friends of the Chatsworth Library book store, purchased for 50 cents. I wonder what other books that were written more than 20 years ago, that I have missed out on. Donna Boswell
February, 2016

Postscript - I went to LAPL.org website, and found Flying Blind: a novel of Amelia Earhart by Max Allan Collins in the search functions. I placed a hold on the book to be delivered to the Chatsworth Branch from the Downtown Central Library. I will get an email when it is ready for pickup, should be here soon.

Library Book Club

Chairman – Clara Woll

The Chatsworth Library Book Club meets the first Wednesday of every month from 1:00-2:30 PM in the Library Multipurpose Room. Our members choose the books they want to read, so we cover a large variety of subjects, both fiction and non-fiction. Our discussions are fun and insightful. The books can be ordered from the Library. Come join us! Our next books will be:

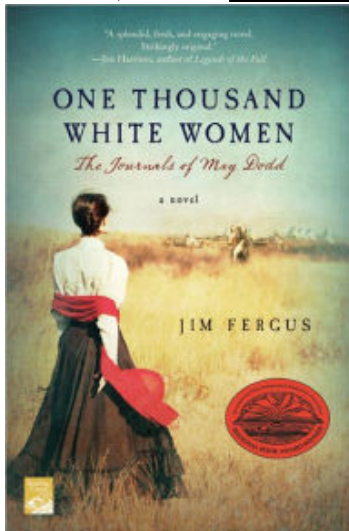

May 4, 2016 - Wild: from Lost to Found on the Pacific Crest Trail by Cheryl Strayed – Call # 813 S913S – 2012 – 315 pages

Shattered at age 26 by the death of her mother and the end of her marriage, the author did something way out of the realm of her experience – she took a solo 1,100-mile hike along the Pacific Coast Trail.

June 1, 2016 – One Thousand White Women: the journals of May Dodd by Jim Fergus – Fiction- 1998 – 304 pages

The book tells of the “Brides for Indians” program launched in 1875 by the U. S. government under Ulysses S. Grant, to help assimilate Cheyenne Indians into the white man’s world.

LIBRARY DONATIONS

Our Library has been fortunate to have received several donations over the last few months. Some have come directly as cash/check donations to keep up the good work by appreciative patrons; others have come as donations in memory of family members or friends.

Donations made to the Friends of the Chatsworth Library are tax deductible. We are recognized as a charitable nonprofit organization under the Internal Revenue Tax Code 501(c)(3). The Friends Group coordinates with Library Staff to provide funds for programs, book purchases, and improvements to the Library.

If a patron is interested in making a special donation, a bookplate may be prepared in recognition of an individual, milestone or occasion. The Library staff can also select certain categories of books for the library system. Please contact the Senior Librarian if you have an interest in this program.
